We are happy in the thought of the advent of the Centennial year of American Independence. The signs of the times portend that it will be one of marked interest and prosperity. An era of increased confidence is coming over the country, and should our predictions be fully realized, it will be well if we all make hay while the sun shines, and of our friends of the year, save something for the future "rainy day" which may come entirely without warning. We verily believe that 1876 will be the most prosperous year we have ever had. Let us embrace the opportunity to provide for our declining years. As a State we shall revel in wealth and luxury. Our billion production will equal that of all the other States and Territories combined. Such a circumstance of itself must bring us plenty. For our town of Reno we are sure we have made no mistake in our calculations. It will be the best year yet known in its history. Our timber interests are attracting the attention of capital, and our bodies of rich ore to the northward threaten to furnish us a bonanza of which we need not be ashamed; emigrants are being attracted hither by glowing reports from our fertile soil, and institutions of learning projected, which is of all signs the most hopeful that our future permanency and greatness is no longer a matter of doubt.

REMISSION OF SINS.

Some very singular developments have just come to light in New York, before a Jewish tribunal. It seems that P. M. Rubenstein, the man arrested last week for the murder of a young Jewess named Sara Alexander, some six weeks ago, made a contract with a poverty-stricken Israelite, whereby the latter, in consideration of the sum of $45, "agreed to assume all the sins committed by Rubenstein for six months, and to bear punishment for them in the next world." This contract was written in Hebrew, duly signed by both parties, and was also indorsed by several witnesses. But the party who assumed the sins of Rubenstein developed the plan to his wife, who strenuously objected to such an arrangement, on the ground that she, and her children, would have to suffer in the "next world" for sins assumed by her husband. Consequently she demanded that Rubenstein should rescind the contract, but he flatly refused; and finally the matter came before the Jewish tribunal, which decided against Rubenstein—on the same singular ground that the wife, being an interested party in this remission of sins, had a right to prohibit the contract. A strange case, and one that exhibits a novel way for the remission of sins in New York.

LITTLE PROSPECT OF DIFFICULTY WITH SPAIN.

A Washington dispatch says that the prospect of a peaceable settlement of our difficulty with Spain, and her renewed energy and wisdom in the pacification of Cuba, is so good that unless a new unforeseen and unexpected change should occur, there is no probability of hostilities or of the necessity for such intervention as was foreshadowed in the President's message. Spanish property owners in Cuba have but recently been made to bear a large part of the burden of war, and their sufferings have disposed them to urge peace and good government as a means of peace. An expert financier is now in Cuba with power to re-arrange the finances and make important reforms of all kinds, in which labor he will have the aid of Jovellar, the new Captain. It is probable that the substance of that part of the President's message relating to Cuba was sent in advance to the American Ministers at the principal European courts, and thus committed to the governments to which they were accredited as matters of information and to draw out from them some expressions of opinion.

BUSINESS MEN AND LOUIS.

Few men in business, argues the Carson Tribune, will dispute the abstract proposition that advertising is a good thing. But when advised to prove their faith by their works, they too often reply that they can not afford to pay the money necessary to advertise. This is always a mistake. No man can afford to go into business who can not afford to advertise; for without calling to him aid this powerful agency he may toil and struggle for years, if he be poor, but he can never enlarge the area of his trade, and increase his business. The men who have become millionaires in this country were wide awake and always expended a certain proportion of their profits in making known to the people what they had to sell. They will tell you that they owe their success to the judicious use of printer's ink. They could not buy better or sell cheaper than thousands of others who failed to accumulate wealth, but they called to their assistance an agency which had more voices than the winds and more hands than Briareus, and they were winning voices and willing hands. The men sought to know the wants of the public and determined to convince the public that such wants existed and that they could supply them.

THE COMING VICTORY.

The history of the last fourteen years has been full of sharp oscillations—one year, as in 1862, during the middle of Lincoln's term, the Democracy sweeping half the States of the North and a multitude of Republican districts, with large majorities; and the next year buried under a Republican reaction twice as vigorous for the temporary backward. This, says the Winnemucca Register, is what will happen in 1876. The quickness and energy of the retrograde swing, is a certain measure of the vigor and promptness of the revolution. The Republican party—which would probably have lost the next Presidential election, if it had not been relieved of the fearful tension of responsibility for the legislation of Congress (the lower House being Democratic) during those hard and critical times, and if the whimsical popular desire for a change had not in the meantime been gratified—may now buckle on its armor for the next Presidential contest with the almost absolute assurance of the most complete and overwhelming victory it has ever known.

OF IMPORTANCE TO PIR-IMPURTS.

A decision of much importance to settlers on public lands has just been made by the Secretary of the Interior. The rule is therein laid down that a mortgage unsatisfied at date of proof and entry defeats a pre-emption claim. In other words, says the Gold Hill News, a settler upon a tract of Government land who has improved his claim, filed his declaratory statement and thereafter mortgaged his property, must see to it that such mortgage is released before he makes final proof and payment. If the mortgage remains upon the land, his title is worthless, and the land is at the mercy of any speculator or squatter who may choose to avail himself of such settler's ignorance of the law. This decision is a reversal of the ruling made by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and is very important to pre-emptors. Those holding land by pre-emption will do well to look over their titles and see if, at the time they made final proof and payment, there was any mortgage upon their claim. If so, it should be released at once, and if we construe the decision correctly, a new application for patent be filed.

AFTER THE STATE PRISON.

The Carson Tribune of Thursday says that a suit of ejectment was on that day commenced in the United States Court for the possession of the Nevada State Prison ground and the papers were served on the Governor, Attorney General and Secretary of State, demanding of the Board of which they are the members, possession of the said premises. It appears that A. D. Treadway has disposed of his interest in and to said property to a Mr. Adams and William Masie, the City of Sacramento, and that the names of those gentlemen appear as plaintiffs in the case. We have only this to say at present concerning the matter, viz: It's all a muddle, and how the devil it will end, verily we know not; but that a severe ending will be the ultimate result, is a doubt certainly.

GOVERNOR NYE.

The report that Governor Nye was recovering his health and mental faculties is now contradicted. He has been removed from the asylum he came his recovery was pronounced hopeless, not for the reason that his senses were restored. We doubt, remarks the Winnemucca Silver State, if there is within the limits of Nevada a single individual who does not regret his unfortunate condition or that would not be pleased to hear of his recovery, for he was a man that, taken all in all, had but few equals on the coast, and none that we know of among the new Senators from Nevada. He did not set private business above duty to his constituents; but always presented his State in the Senate, and if he made money in mill dams he spent it in Carson, which is indebted to him for its mind and many other favors.

NEVADA MINING NEWS.

[From the Gold Hill News of Thursday.]

A portion of the leading stocks show a strong advance over the prices at the close of last week, while many of the others are not so strong. While the present market appears to be a little uncertain, it is evident that the expected ore developments in some of the principal mines on the line of the Coaststock will gradually force a standard of much better prices in the course of two or three months more. The Consolidated Virginia is again taking out and crushing regularly from 450 to 500 tons of rich ore per day, and will undoubtedly make her regular dividend although owing to the mills not getting well to work before the middle of the month, the returns may not be sufficient to warrant the usual dividend of $10 per share. The Belcher is extracting and crushing 450 tons of ore daily, on which the net profit will be fully as great as last month. The Crown Point adds 425 tons; the Imperial 40, and the Justice 30 tons per day to the sum total, so that there is no discouragement to be found in either the appearance or yield of the mines. The indication of future ore developments in the Sierra Nevada, the Yellow Jacket and the Overman, are better than they have been for several months past. The Baltimore and American Flat are opening a new level 200 feet deeper than any that has yet been prospected in that section, and there seems but little doubt that with the good prospects found on the levels above, a good paying mine will yet be developed on that portion of the ledge.

Consolidated Virginia.

Daily yield, 500 tons of ore. Owing to the mills being unable to crush it, and the teamsters unable to haul it to the mills, the supply of ore has been temporarily reduced to the above amount. The appearances are, however, that the storm of the past few days is over, and that the amount of ore will be increased as fast as it can be taken from the dumps. The ore-breasts and stopes throughout the mine continue their regular yield of rich ores, and show no sign of diminution whatever. The mills are all running up to their full crushing capacity, and the regular dividend may confidently be looked for, although it may not be quite so large as heretofore, owing to the late start in the month of the mills. The erection of the new assay and reduction works is well under way. The frame is up and the foundations for the floor and other brickwork are about completed. The annual meeting takes place in San Francisco on the 13th of January next.

Ophir.

The new pumping and hoisting engines are working splendidly. The flow of water is now rapidly taken up by the pumps at the 700-foot level. In the shaft it is reduced to 30 feet below the 1500 foot level, where it is allowed to remain pending the reparation of the drifts and winzes on that level. Those drifts are badly caved, as are also the north and south winzes, extending downward from the 1500 to the 1600-foot level. Both these winzes are closed, so that it is impossible to yet ascertain the amount of actual damage done. The main drift on the 1600-foot level is also badly caved, and the east shaft is full of water, which will have to be taken out with the air engines run by the compressors as soon as work can be comfortably resumed at that point. The erection of the incline hoisting machinery is making good progress.

Julia Consolidated.

The 1600 foot station is nearly completed, ready to start a drift to cut and prospect the ore vein at that point. As soon as this station is in good working order, sinking the main shaft will be resumed. There is nothing doing on the 1500-foot level at present. The main drift on the 1400-foot level is steadily advancing, the face almost entirely in quartz and low grade ore. The character of the quartz encountered at this point is very encouraging. It is seven feet in thickness and bids fair to lead to more and better ore deposits. The southwest crosscut from this drift is in a distance of 80 feet, the face still in tough clay mixed with spots of white quartz.

Belcher.

Daily yield, 450 tons of ore. The ore-breasts are all looking well and yielding the usual quantity of good ore. The new air-compressor is ready to start up, and it is expected that the water will now soon be drained from the 1640 foot level, so that work can soon be resumed at that point. The air shaft is completed to the 1100-foot level, and is now being continued on down to the 1500. The machinery is all working finely, and the company have a good supply of wood and other supplies laid in, so that there is nothing to prevent a good, lively winter's work.

Overman.

The main south drift from the bottom of the winze on the 1100 foot level is being steadily advanced. No material change to report. The main west drift on the same level is also being steadily driven ahead. Cleaning out and repairing the main shaft below the 1100 foot level, preparatory to resume sinking, is making good progress.

Crown Point.

Daily yield, 425 tons of ore, keeping the mills all steadily running. The main south drift, on the 1000-foot level, is steadily advancing to connect with the south winze from the 1500 foot level. This winze is making good progress, the bottom still in ore. Nothing now of the prospecting operations on the 1700-foot level.

Yellow Jacket.

The north and south drifts from the bottom of the two winzes, on the 1910 foot level, are being steadily driven forward, the face of both in good working ground. No change in any other portion of the mine worthy of note.

Justice.

Daily yield, 30 tons of ore. This ore is being taken from the 600 and 400 foot levels and is of a good mill run quality. The station at the 1000-foot level is completed and a drift started to cut and prospect the ore vein at that point.

LOST AND FOUND.

A Romance of the Mines—Eleven Hundred Dollars in a Dinner Bucket.

There is such a thing as too much as well as too little caution, and the chances for losing a fortune while sailing under the colors of either are, perhaps, at an even. An instance, in which excessive caution came near robbing a man of all his spare coin, was brought to our notice to-day.

In the Crown Point mine works a quiet, unassuming man, who, by his most intimate acquaintances, has never been heard to talk of his stocks or money, and who, up to a few days ago, who supposed to be in almost destitute circumstances. Yesterday or the day before, an incident occurred which showed that he was not the pauper he was supposed to be. At that time John McLeod, after going home from his day's work in the mine, shortly returned, and calling the foreman to one side, disclosed to him the fact that he had by a mistake taken some other man's bucket out of the mine, and that the bucket instead of containing a specimen of crystallized quartz which he had placed in his own bucket, held $800 in coin and $300 in mining stocks.

Mr. McLeod had scarcely finished his story before another man, pale, haggard and out of breath, rushed up to the foreman, and in accents wild asked: "Did you see him? Where is he? Where did he go?"

After calming the excited individual so that he could talk coherently, it was discovered that he was the owner of the bucket which McLeod has just brought to the surface. The owner thereof was shown his treasure, and with a wild cry he gathered it to his bosom and went on his way rejoicing.

It appears that ever since the great fire in Virginia the man had been in the habit of taking the money with him to his work, being afraid to leave it in his lodging, home or trust it in the hands of a banker. Had McLeod not been honest that man would now be mourning the loss of his $1,100.—Gold Hill News.

SUMMITT—The Home Supply—San Francisco consumes daily about ten tons of sulphur, which the Post says is received from Sicily, Japan and the Nevada sulphur mine. The latter is situated about thirty miles from Humboldt, and yields on an average five tons a day. Three railroads have just been set up, and the Company expect soon to have nine more in working order. There are now on the way to San Francisco two car-loads of ten tons each of refined sulphur, which will be the first lot of this quality the Company has received. The Company has made arrangements for a steam wagon to transport their sulphur from the refining works to Humboldt Station. The supply from this mine when the additional railroads are in place, is expected to be not only sufficient for the consumption of this coast, but will also leave a large margin for exportation to the East. The sulphur is of a very fine quality, is in almost inexhaustible quantities, and as it comes from the mine is singularly free from foreign matter.

AN UNPARALLELED PARAGRAPH.—The Philadelphia Bulletin has this statement: An Indiana paper alluding to the death of the man who designed the great seal of that State, remarks that "any man who would try to make people believe a full-grown buffalo had would deliberately rush up to a granger who was chopping down a tree as unwise as to die." But the State seal of Indiana is not by any means the most remarkable of the current devices employed for that purpose. Georgia offers something more a convincing in a picture of an absurd Summer-house supported by three pillars, and guarded by a Continental soldier with work legs; and Kentucky actually presents a figure of General Washington in the act of holding up an intoxicated friend in order to keep him from falling against a bookcase in the background. After this California's device of Minerva sitting on a stone, while a rattle-snake bites her left leg, seems artistic and nice.

HAS SHUNK.—The daring spirit that once characterized Sergeant Bates has at last shrunk to such contemptible proportions that he can no longer be regarded as a representative American. He was kicked by a mule in Canada without resenting it.

The Order of the American Union.

As much has been published recently in connection with the secret society called the Order of the American Union, the National Executive Committee of the Order has decided on giving to the public a summary of the principles underlying the organization:

First—They accept the Bible as a basis of all moral and religious government.

Second—They yield unhesitating support to the Constitution and Government of the United States and the several States.

Third—They urge that the present system of general unsectarian free school organization shall be maintained inviolate.

Fourth—They claim that no part of the public funds shall ever be used for the support and maintenance of any sectarian school or institution whatever.

Further than this, they are opposed to interference in politics by any man or body of men acting in behalf or by direction of ecclesiastical body or power—as to third term or one term; Democracy or Republican, hard or soft money, speckled or straight whisky, they are entirely outside of their lines and plans and receive no attention whatever.
